The men from Company D who will shoot at Wakefield this year on the first team are: Captain J. W. Nash, Lieutenant M. P. Smith, Sergeant C. A. Martin, M. P. Marton and L. H. Daugherty.

The second team will consist of Sergeant Walter C. Leavitt, F. E. Swan, Corporal S. S. Maxim, A. L. Wyman and Private W. M. Russell. Each team is entitled to two substitutes.

A Smart Young Man.

Elwood Brooks, the son of Rev. and Mrs. C. A. Brooks of this place, is a remarkably smart young man. At the age of ten he entered Yarmouth Academy and graduated from that institution with honors at the age of fourteen. The next year he entered Bates college and has just graduated. A little over a year ago when he was but eighteen he received his license to preach and has been supplying at different churches since. This spring the presiding elder of this district assigned him work at Alfred where he now is.

Hazel Bennett is visiting relatives in Portland.

Emma Stone of Jay visited her brother, F. P. Stone, recently.

Mrs. Elizabeth J. Andrews is spending the summer at Old Orchard.

The merry-go-round is set up on Whitman street and is in running order. It is a great attraction for the girls and boys.

The Old Ladies' Home has been sold again, this time to Ellsworth Young of Lynn. There was some misunderstanding between A. L. F. Pike and the owners about the price.

A large delegation from Crooked River Lodge, F. & A. M., were entertained by Oxford Lodge, No. 18, F. & A. M., Friday evening. Work three degrees. Banquet, music, speeches, etc.

W. E. Bailey, whose home is in Auburn, is in town selling a very nice soap for workmen and the cleaning of windows, woodwork, etc. It is excellent for removing printer's ink from the hands.

Mrs. M. Munce and family of Berlin, N. H. are at their cottage by Lake Pennessewassee for the next six weeks. Giles O. Holt and family came in their automobile, Tuesday afternoon, to spend the Fourth with them.

W. H. Whitcomb is shingling his house on the corner of Marston and Beal streets occupied by Harry Glidden and George Winslow. Cyrus Watling is painting his house on Main street. F. A. McDaniel has repaired and painted his house.

Mrs. Eugene Lebrooke and Master Carlton have gone to Cape Island, N. S., for two weeks' visit to her mother, who is in very feeble health. Mrs. Watling, Mrs. Nickerson, died very recently. Mrs. Jack Matherson is keeping house for her while away.

Sunday was Old Folks day at the Methodist church and there were a large number of old people who attended. Many who were very feeble and had to be brought into the church were there and the day was much enjoyed. There was also a large attendance at the evening service.

John A. Woodman and Napoleon Champagne of the Beal's Hotel, and Omar Needham and E. W. Sanborn went to Harrison, white, on fishing last Monday afternoon. The catch was 88 fish, that weighed 44 pounds, including the gunny sack and one pickerel, that weighed two pounds.

Mrs. H. L. Horne and Mrs. George W. Holmes invited a few friends to a picnic under the bottom trees between their houses, July 4th. Those present included George Horne and family, Mrs. W. A. Drake and Wallace Drake, Rev. E. S. Rice and family, Ellen and Electra Brown, E. J. Burnell and family, C. W. Horne and family and Lottie Dagle.

Thomas F. Harney, who some 5 years ago was foreman of one of the depart-ments in E. F. Spinyer & Co. factory here, is visiting friends in this vicinity. He is now foreman of E. H. Long Shoe Co. of South Framingham, Mass., where they make the famous Waldorf shoe for men and women. Mr. Harney is to do some fishing with Mel Sampson, and is to go to East Stoneham to fish for salmon.

NUMBER 27.

Norway's 4th of July.

In Spite of the Rain She Celebrated.

The Fourth's advance guard was with us the third. Some of the more patriotic simply could not wait and had to give vent to their feelings of patriotism in an occasional firecracker, torpedo or melon-choly tool. These sounds increased in volume, till at ten o'clock in the evening there was quite a goodly noise that coming for the grand outburst when the clock in the tower chimed twelve.

Then the rain descended and the rain descended, and kept descending until daylight. This was quite a quench, still a number of boys and young men, saw the night through and made music performance was mostly on horns, pistols, crackers and other explosives with an occasional vocal accompaniment. The fire in the Printing house square looked sort of cheerful in the dreary downpour. The street lights burned all night, regardless of the moon, and the streets were well policed.

The celebration proper began with a dance at the Opera House "the night before," with music by Stearns' Orchestra. There were about four couples on the floor and the time was kept well employed until a late hour.

There were many strangers in town, came the night before to attend the dance at the Opera House and be ready to hear the sunrise salute. The sun did not dawn till 10 o'clock, notwithstanding it was the 130th anniversary of the glorious fourth. Numbers of people gathered on the streets and filled the sidewalks on both sides of Main street and at 9 o'clock, though it was still cloudy it was thought best to commence. Norway brass band, sixteen strong, marched up street followed by the Berlin band, and halted in Printing-house square. The sound of that music was welcome to the anxious waiters, who did not know whether there would be a celebration or not. A number of the business places and residences were decorated. Thomas Smiley's show window had the "Goddess of Liberty" flags, etc. Stone's Drug Store, liberty bells and other fancy paper in red, white and blue.

Noyes Drug Store was also decorated in fancy papers. Wm. C. Leavitt Co., G. A. R. hall, Dr. DeWitt Parmenter, James N. Faver, Chas. F. Ridlon, J. O. Crooker, Norway Boarding House, George W. Locke, Mrs. A. F. Andrews and Geo. E. Tubbs displayed flags.

Owing to the rain and uncertainty the parade was not what it was planned. It formed on Main street instead of Upper Water street, and was made up of per Berlin Brass Band, Prof. John Phillips, leader; Co. D. N. G. S. M., Lieut. Moses P. Stiles, Norway Brass Band, Frank Kimball, leader. There was a good bit on the Waterford electric with the dead man on the back of the team in a box. The horribles marched under the banner of "Norway Brass Band."

Their musical instruments were more for show than for use, and no amount of inclement weather would injure their costumes. The drum major made fun. The organ grinder did all things but grind out music.

Walter Chandler as drum major, had the burlesque on Norway Brass Band which made a big display. Will McKay, captain, a takeoff on Norway Brass Band.

Roy Corwell, driver of a horse and buckboard, represented a well known Yagzer farmer and boy, shouted "See, your horse rooster!" and punched the cage where the bird was supposed to be. Hitched to this big rig was the "to be" Norway and Waterford Electro-magnetic steam railroad which has now been in the process of construction some 9 years.

The craft was ancient and pretty well weather beaten. They did everything to revive the dead one, even carried him up and down the railroad track. They doctored him and they punched him and finally the whole outfit went to smash and was left by the roadside.

Idaho cowboys from Alabama mounted on gray, green and yellow horses, that weighed from 700 to 1700 pounds. Their war-whoops were awful and gyrations grand but not magnificent.

Guy Emery, Winnie Snow, Knox Bickford, Carl Foss, Fred LaFrance and others represented the famous and renowned, world starting and money making shoe maker's team of ball players called "The Redolites." They gave a fine exhibition of "how to do it and win a game" in front of the Beal's House. They were loudly applauded, but the ground was wet.

A shay top hitched to an oil or alcohol barrel, represented the Sturgis Standard oil commission and was drawn by a spirited horse bedecked with flags and bunting.

Chas. Henry and Hugh Pike, sons of Dennis, had pork boxes, barrels, boxes, horns labeled refined canned goods from Chicago-Armour & Co., export only and home consumption.

There were thirty-three teams gotten ready for the parade, but the rain prevented their appearing, also the merchant and fancy hitched.

Between two and three hundred people were fed at G. A. R. hall by the Veterans Club.

Contrary to the usual custom there wasn't any one to beat the judge of the Municipal court after the celebration of the Fourth. Perhaps it was because water entered so largely in the affair.

Crommet & Boucher run their steam-er lines on Pennessewassee, for those who wished ride on the lake.

Chandler's Brass Band got the prize in the horribles.

There was a band concert by the Norway Band, in Witherell Park, from 6.30 to 8 o'clock in the evening. The people are proud of the music by the band, and always come out en masse to hear them.

At the Fair Grounds.

All the games and performances were done in front of the Grand Stand. Four contestants were in the potato race. Pick up 40 of them and put in a basket, and one at a time, too. The first prize, $2, was awarded to Frank LaFrance, and second to Frank LaFrancis.

Just as the obstacles were being placed for the obstacle race there was one of the hardest showers of the day. It had looked to be warm and pleasant for the afternoon and the people were dressed in light summer apparel. Many had neglected to take umbrellas and when that shower came the people way they rushed for cover was one of the best shows of the day. They just squadded. The wind blew the rain in un-

Democratic County Convention.

An Enthusiastic Gathering with Speeches. Candidate D. J. McGillicuddy Present. Oxford County Democrats Have Voted Up.

Not for many years has there been so large an attendance at a Democratic County Convention as assembled at the Court House last Tuesday. The number of delegates entitled to seats were 74, and that number were present, besides a good sprinkling of interested citizens.

The convention was called to order by B. G. McIntire, chairman of the County Democratic Committee, and Hon. A. S. Kimball was called to preside. Mr. Kimball thanked those present for the honor conferred upon him and made a good speech which was well received.

Ralph I. Trask of Norway and G. R. Wiley of Bethel served as secretaries, and while the County Committee were the executive committee with the understanding of delegates to the necessity of getting out every Democratic vote.

The first in order of business was the election of the 1899 Governor, Morton was elected over the Whig candidate by a vote. In order to win every vote must be got out.

The Chair appointed a committee on resolutions, viz: a report of the Col. A. W. Bradbury, Bethel, Fred L. Edwards, Bethel, A. A. Hartford, Hiram, A. D. Nelson, Rumford, Sullivan Reed, Rumford, H. O. Blake, Oxford.

The chair appointed a committee to select a Democratic county committee for the next two years. The following served on the committee:

Merton L. Kimball, Norway, W. H. Kilgore, Waterford, Y. A. Thurston, Andover, E. L. Edwards, Bethel, A. E. Shurtliff, South Paris, Matthew McCarthy, Rumford.

Later on this committee reported and the convention elected a county Democratic committee with the understanding that the member of the State Democratic committee, also the member of the 2d Congressional committee be ex-official members of the county committee and that the member of State committee be chairman of the county committee.

M. A. Waite, Canaan, M. S. Howard, Mexico, Matthew McCarthy, Rumford, Arthur Goulter, Bethel, F. L. Edwards, Bethel, A. S. Kimball, Norway, W. O. Frothingham, Paris, F. O. Frothingham, Paris, Geo. W. Richardson, Greenwood, H. D. E. Hutchins, Fryburg, Frank O. Palmer, Fortier.

Mr. Farrar made a motion that a committee be appointed by the chair to bring in a list of officers to be elected for this year. This was objected to by M. L. Kimball who believed that such a committee was unnecessary. The delegates sustained the objection and the candidates were nominated from the floor and each candidate received unanimous vote of the delegates.

We will refrain from reporting the beautiful nominating speeches made and simply give the name of the one making the speech and presenting the name of the candidate.

B. G. McIntire of Waterford presented the name of Dr. Frank W. Morse of Canaan for Senator.

Merton L. Kimball, Norway, A. M. Edwards, Bethel, for Clerk of Courts.

W. L. Farrar, Paris, for County Treasurer.

Hon. A. S. Kimball called Secretary Wiley to preside and presented the name of George McCarthy of Rumford Falls for County Attorney.

M. L. Kimball went out of the usual to considerable of an extent and presented the name of J. Hastings Bean, the present incumbent for Register of Deeds for the Western district.

Mr. A. H. Hart of Hiram put in nomination Norman Charles of Fryburg for Register of Deeds in the Western district.

Fred L. Edwards, Bethel, presented the name of Y. A. Thurston of Andover as County Commissioner, and we have for his opponent, and there was a tie.

Thomas S. Bridgman, Bethel, put in nomination Bertrand G. McIntire of Waterford for Sheriff.

It was voted that the Democratic county committee be authorized to fill vacancies that may occur in the office of the county officers.

The speech of acceptance made by B. G. McIntire was modest and to the point. He thanked the members of the convention for the nomination and simple duty as it was an honor conferred on him and if elected, he would do his duty as in the past, and if not elected he would turn over the office next January to his successor and assist him all he could to make the way smooth and easy for him.

Under no circumstances would he again be a candidate for the office of sheriff.

Col. A. W. Bradbury of Bethel for the committee on resolutions reported the following which was unanimously adopted:

The Democrats of Oxford congratulate their brethren of the State and Second district upon their great conventions held at Bangor and Auburn.

We approve the sound doctrine laid down in both platforms and declare our hearty support of the candidates thus put in nomination.

We pledge the citizens of Oxford County to resist all attempts to control or coerce our duly elected representatives by outside commission or otherwise.

We pledge our best efforts to elect the candidates named by this committee, having full confidence in their ability and honesty.

Impressed by the important principles of the initiative and referendum, we adopt as our war cry for this campaign the independent candidate for Governor: "Back to the People!"

Candidate for Congress, 2d district, Hon. D. J. McGillicuddy was present and made a good speech, he can always do that, but this owing to the material at hand was better than usual. The speech was well received and there was a tie.

He believed in trusting the people rather than the Republican machine in this state; just taxation on unimproved and wild land, railroad and other corporations of the kind, and the Special and Private Act of the Legislature of 1901—regarding the tax on the Bangor & Aroostook railroad—when in a contract was made to rebate 95 per cent of the tax assessed for 20 years, and in consideration the railroad was to carry free of charge the army and ammunition of war when this country was actively engaged in war. Up to now it has been the tax payers of the State thousands and thousands of dollars and put money into the pockets of the privileged few. His speech was well received and was heartily applauded.

It is evident that the Democrats in this County are thoroughly waked up.

Notes.

Uncle John F. Rice of North Waterford was present at the convention. He drove from his home and was one of the most active men present, notwithstanding his many years of service.

A. A. Hartford drove across the country from Hiram. He came to Harrison and stopped over night there.

Leonard A. Carter of Norway, though in feeble health, was at the convention and says he is hoping to cast a democratic vote in September, and he shall do so if he lives.

The Bethel delegates came in automobiles and made something of a show. F. L. Edwards and J. A. Thurston were present with touring cars. Some 12 bug wagons are owned in and about Bethel.

The Inna May Company.

Commencing Monday, July 9th, and continuing the nights, the Inna May Company will present a repertoire of plays at Norway Opera House that are sure to please the people. High class specialties will be introduced between the acts. No waits. There are moving pictures and latest illustrated songs, besides other specialties.

On Monday night will be the sensational comedy drama, "A Boy of the Streets." Miss May will be seen in the leading role, and she is a bright little lady and sure to please the audience from the start. Do not fail to hear Miss May Monday night in her big success, "I'm Nothing but a Big Wax Doll."

The prices are 10, 20 and 30 cents. Seats sale at Stone's. Ladies' tickets will be exchanged before 7 o'clock, Monday night. Get your seats early.

G. A. Kenerson has a new sign over his place of business.

Dr. and Mrs. Harry Nevins of Bangor are at A. J. Nevins.

Mr. A. A. Towne of Winn is at his father's.

Leon E. Frost of Salem, Mass., is visiting friends here this week.

Stella Walker has been confined to the house a few days with muscular rheumatism.

Mrs. Lena Gray of Livermore Falls is visiting her mother and other relatives in town.

Mattie Richards of South Paris is working in Merrill's photograph rooms, retouching.

Holy Communion was observed at the Congregational church last Sunday and reception of members.

Mr. and Mrs. Hal R. Eaton of Belfast are at Mrs. Eaton's parents', Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sargent's.

Mrs. Mary Cole of Boston is in Norway and vicinity.

At present she is at her old home in Waterford.

George E. Tubbs of the Savings Bank and daughter were in Portland last Monday. Miss Staples was in charge of the party.

Thaddeus Blaine Roberts, son of J. A. Roberts of Norway Lake, is to go to Worcester, Mass., to attend an electrical school.

C. Reuben Rice goes to Bethel to make plans for H. P. Webb Co. This will take a few weeks and then he will go to the Leeds factory.

The officers of the Epworth league of the Methodist church were installed by the pastor Sunday, also a reception of new members.

The pink rambler in front of the Elm House has a lot of admirers. Its blossoms look like a reflection from the pink and white cheeks of the passing maiden.

The Waterford stage driver, Alphonso Charles, has been taking some of the Stephenson boats to the camps in Lovell. He has taken one behind the stage on the two-wheeled "boat cart" for several nights.

Karl Lester Tower is at his father's, F. E. Tower's, during his long summer vacation from the New England Conservatory of music at Boston. He will teach the piano-forte to a limited number of pupils.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gibson of San Rafael, Cal., who have been visiting his brother, H. E. Gibson, started Thursday morning for Colebrook, N. H., where they will visit relatives and friends.

There will be a part of the way by team. Mrs. Horace Cole went to Worcester, Mass., to the graduation of her son, Stephen B. Jewett, at the Clark University, and has been absent some three weeks visiting relatives in and around Boston. She will return next week.

H. D. Smith and wife were at Vinal-haven this week to attend the wedding of their son, Mark, who was married to Miss Vinal of that place last Wednesday.

Fred E. Smith, a brother of the groom, was present. Mr. and Mrs. Mark Smith are now in Norway.

S. W. Libby had a 4th of July all to himself. With a crutch by his side he sat in a good location on Main street and viewed the scenes and listened to the times that came from a music box of the size of a ten cent tobacco box. This box has been his property for 39 years and never refuses to make good music when wound up.

L. E. Howland and wife of Portland visited friends here this week. Mr. Howland runs a switch engine in the Portland yard of the Grand Trunk. Years ago he was fireman on the Norway Branch. He is to have a ten days' vacation. His wife, nee Miss Threl, assisted at the National bank while Carter Smith was in Vinalhaven this week.

Dr. John F. Howland, surgeon dentist of Portland, to escape the noise and racket incident to a Fourth of July in that city came to Norway. He was stopped at the Beal's House—he was told it would be quiet here and he could get a good night's rest and go trout fishing the next day. As to the quietness the night before and sleep he had nothing to say but he did get just a dozen trout from Lombard brook, ten of good sized of which he felt very proud, but he is going gunning for the man who sent him here to escape the night before noise of the city.

Norway Municipal Court.

Monday was a busy day at the court. Eustace Bennett was brought in for intoxication, found not guilty and discharged.

Alvin Scribner, an old offender, was sentenced to 90 days in jail for intoxication and appealed.

Frank Sampson, for intoxication and disturbing the peace was sentenced to $5.00 and costs which he paid.

Sewell Parker pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication and was sentenced to 30 days in jail but appealed.

Money for Wayside Improvement.

A gentleman from a distant city met us on the street the other morning and placed in our hands a $5.00 bill, saying: "I was up the lake yesterday, and the improvements on the Frost Corner road look so good from the water I want to contribute something for the care of it. Please do not put my name in the paper and I hope you will be able to keep the trees trimmed as suggested."

Wm. Bolton is to trim the trees in bend of the road as it hardly seems probable that the proposed railroad will be built this season. He will commence next week.

The two points of land by the brook should be fixed. To do it as has been planned will require considerable money. If we can get the money it will be done.

Are you willing to contribute?

Women's Club Outing.

The Norway Federation of Women's Clubs was invited by its President, Mrs. F. A. Danforth, to hold their mid-summer meeting, June 25th, at Hillside cottage by Lake Pennessewassee. The morning dawned beautiful and clear.

Lovell said "In June, if ever, come perfect days." If Mr. Lovell's rays were a little too ardent in the middle of the day, the morning was certainly perfect.

At ten by the town clock the steamer was at the boat landing ready to carry all who wished to go. Arriving at their destination they were met at the wharf by the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Danforth, who conducted them to the cottage, where they made themselves comfortable on the wide veranda and in the shady grove.

At the noon hour all gathered in groups for lunch with appetites whetted by the open air. Who could not be happy under such conditions?

In the afternoon the Henrietta called at the wharf bringing a delegation, that, with those who came in private teams swelled the attendance to some 120 or more. A business meeting was held and at the conclusion of that session a short program was given consisting of a Reading, Mrs. Alice Oxnard, Barton Club, Paris, Me., Mrs. Frank P. Towne, Canaan, Me., Mrs. Christine Stephens, Norway Lake Club, Reading, Me., Mrs. Adelle Thurston, Roywood Club, Faroe, Me., Yvonne Olin, Faroe, Me.

This farce was a clever take-off on the methods of women in their business meetings and was very nicely done. All too soon came the "all aboard" whistle from the Pennessewassee, and reluctantly all returned to their homes with pleasant memories of a day's outing by the lake.

Merton Kimball attended commencement at Bowdoin college last week.

Frank Ricker of Harrison, was over here this week in his new automobile.

Annie Symonds of Hebron is spending her vacation at the Methodist parsonage.

Harry White and family have moved into the "Wood" house on the Pike Hill road.

Mr. and Mrs. John Howe of Bryant's Pond spent the 4th with Rev. and Mrs. C. A. Brooks.

Master William Leavitt furnished the sporting editor of the ADVERTISER with three plants of good, fat angleworms, Tuesday.

Prof. and Mrs. Verne M. Whitman and Master Charles of Peterboro, N. H., are at Judge and Mrs. C. F. Whitman's on Crescent street.

Dr. and Mrs. George W. Soule of Boston are at Mrs. Soule's father's, John Hazen's, on Pleasant street. They came through from Boston in their automobile.

Judge H. C. Davis has one of the best vegetable gardens in this vicinity. He has sweet corn silkened and it will not be long before the Judge will be enjoying the fruits of the soil.

Joseph Lary has another good garden. He has been gathering radishes, lettuce, etc. for the last three or four weeks, and the peas and early potatoes are nearly ready to gather. Mrs. Sarah M. Smith on Danforth street has a fine garden. She also has been eating lettuce and treating her neighbors for several weeks.

Minnie Haley of Springfield, Ill., and Nellie Gupitt of that town have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. John A. Woodman. Nellie is a young girl, ten years old, and she has always lived in a large city, till recently she moved to her present home in Springfield. Her ideas of affairs are adjusted to houses and things pertaining to life here. She was very desirous when here of going on Pike Hill. She wanted to climb a mountain. Her mother, with her one day on this "mountain climb," "O what a little place Norway is, just a handful

The Painter Knows

The best results can be obtained only when the paint is Pure White Lead and Pure Linseed Oil mixed with the requirements of the particular job in view.

Be wary of the man who suggests the use of paint already prepared. He cannot know the ingredients of such mixtures. First-class painting can only be had by the use of paint which contains nothing but Pure White Lead and Pure Linseed Oil, colored to the desired shade. Specify

RED SEAL
Pure White Lead
(Made by the Old Dutch Process)

Mixed with Pure Linseed Oil, and see that your painter uses it. It spreads easily and uniformly, forming an elastic coat that immediately becomes a part of the wood itself. It will not crack or peel as do adulterated paints. This means attractive appearance and perfect protection throughout all the long years of its life. When it does wear, it wears away uniformly, and when the painter is called upon again, he finds the surface all ready for him without recourse to scraping and "burning off." Remember the name, Red Seal Pure White Lead.

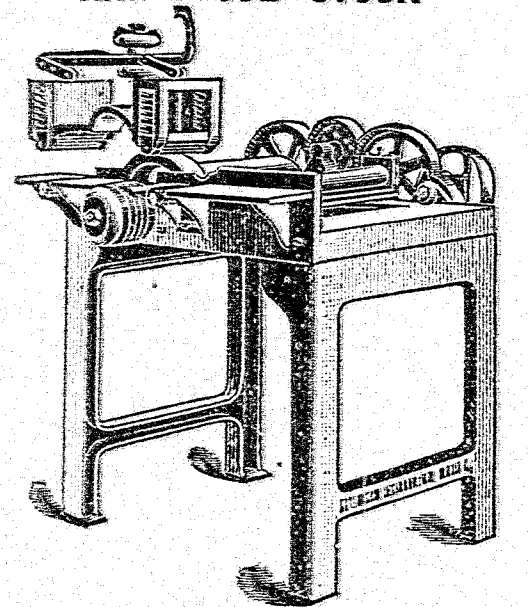

Send for a booklet containing several handsome reproductions of actual houses, offering valuable suggestions for a color scheme in painting your house. A test for paint purity is also given.

Mann's New Clothespin Mill.

The new clothespin mill of L. M. Mann at West Paris, is fast nearing completion and is an improvement in size and construction over the one recently destroyed by fire. It is located on the same site as the previous one, but larger, as the other was 30x50 feet and measures 36x66. The annex on the side for boiler room is the same size as the old one, 24x30. The building is not so high as the other one, being but a story and a half above the street, but more room is gained by the large basement which runs the whole length of the building and is a marked improvement. This basement will be used for shafting, storage and a blacksmith shop, also for the packing room.

The next floor will be used for the machinery, and two first class clothespin lathes and two pail handle lathes will be installed, both of which are the valuable improvements of Lewis M. Mann. About the same number of men will be employed, but there will be several improvements in the facilities for handling stock. There will be a dry room in each end of the machine room and stock will be run into the mill on a truck car.

The attic is commodious and will be used for drying and handling the stock. The roof is covered with heavy Brooks brand sheet asbestos roofing and the building is nearly complete. The machinery will soon be put in and Mr. Mann expects to begin work by the last of the summer. He manufactures a high grade of clothespins and makes a specialty of enameled and enameled pail handles. At the time of the fire the enamel shop was but slightly damaged and will be used as before. This company has manufactured as many as fifty thousand cases of clothespins yearly.

NORTH BUCKFIELD.

Fearful Showers.

We have had fearful showers here, lately. Lightning struck an elm tree and a telephone pole near Jim Bicknell's barn; the roads are badly washed and gardens are covered up with mud. A. Mason said his sweet corn was completely buried up in sand.

Our school closed the 16th.

Josephine Monk has closed her school. Mrs. Carrie Fuller was at I. D. Fuller's. Mrs. Ella Damon is at work for Belle Smith.

The First Automobile.

Twenty-five years ago the editor of the ADVERTISER had a car made that was run in a directory of Hon. Richard Gove, and his motor carriage, "Fairy Queen" in front of his residence in Locust, N. H. This picture has now been found and is being run in the papers to show the first automobile. The "Fairy Queen" would go very well. It had an upright boiler and engine in the back part, brakes and other guiding machinery. In fact it was quite a finished product.

"Dick" was a very small man in stature, a jeweler, who believed in having all the good things on earth. He married very late in life, so late that no one knew how late, a young girl just out of school, but he lived to pass successfully the divorce court and years of a happy life afterwards. "Dick" could get round in his "Fairy Queen" all right, but it was such a war with the horse, that he was obliged to keep it off the highway. You can imagine how such a vehicle before the days of bicycles, electric cars and automobiles would frighten the horses. "Dick" always wore a very large diamond in his shirt front. On so small a car, it made a show. It sparkled and blazed in the sunlight. He was a man not over four feet tall and quite slight, and with the tall hat he invariably wore, his immaculate clothing, the flashing diamond, and the smoke and sparks belching behind him it was no wonder man and beast thought him a visitor from the infernal regions. It made such a row that Dick after a few years consigned the "Fairy Queen" to the scrap heap and sold it for old junk. This happened some thirty-five years ago. Dick has been dead several years, but can he see the perfected automobiles all over the world he must feel his idea of a power wagon has been vindicated, and the fright of horse and man in a great degree conquered.

This picture and the memory of Dick and his power wagon in the minds of the people in the limited region that were permitted to see them, is all that remains to tell the great idea that was destined later to make a revolution in locomotion.

HYRANT'S FOND.

Florence Day is at home from Wells, where she has been teaching.

Rev. E. A. Davis preached at the Baptist church last Sunday.

The Ladies' Aid, connected with the Baptist society for the repairs of that church, had a food sale at the Town hall, Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. They expect to have a food sale every two weeks.

Mrs. George Coffin is visiting her parents, in the provinces.

Mary and Etta Bartlett from Portland are in their cottage here for the summer.

Mrs. Brenda Soule Clarke and son, Robert, from South Paris, have been visiting friends here. Mrs. Clark has her household goods all packed, ready to move to Freeport, where she will make her home with her mother.

Mrs. Martha E. Davis has gone to Wakefield, Mass., for a few weeks visit with her niece, Mrs. W. J. Ripley, and A. J. Perham's families.

G. L. Cushman attended the convention at Lewiston.

The Proprieties.

It must be understood clearly that it is not correct for a young woman or girl to be accompanied on a journey by a man who is not a near relative, and that engaged persons do not make journeys alone together. If a young girl or an inexperienced woman is obliged to make a long journey alone, it should be arranged that friends shall meet her on her arrival. A young girl traveling alone cannot be too careful in observing the proprieties. She must not enter conversation with strangers, or accept favors from them. If some slight service is offered, she may be gracious with a bow and word of thanks, but this does not mean that any conversation should follow.

In these days women travel about very independently, and will find they are treated with respect provided they are quiet and dignified.

There should be no loud talking or laughter, discussions of private affairs or mention of names in public places. A person speaks in quiet tones in the dining room of a hotel and give their orders quietly to the servants.

Prudence is observed about making acquaintances at hotels. One may exchange names in private, but it is not well to progress farther. If staying for some time at a summer hotel, people frequently become friendly, but may not care, after leaving the place, to continue an acquaintance casually begun, and it is not advisable to make overtures of friendship unless very sure that they will be acceptable.

Summer Outings.

"Routes and Fares for Summer Tours" is the title of a book issued by the Grand Trunk Railway System, which is full of interest to the summer tourist who is planning an outing for 1906. In addition to general information, the contents contain particulars of different routes and fares to points in all parts of the country and cover the principal resorts reached by the lines of the Grand Trunk and its connections. It contains a fund of information that will be of great help to those who have not yet decided where to spend their holidays. The book also contains a series of maps for reference. Write today for a copy to J. Quinlan, Bonaventure Station, Montreal.

Mayberry-Waterman.

A quiet wedding occurred at the residence of Randall F. Mayberry, Mechanic Falls, on Sunday evening, June 24th, the contracting parties being Mr. and Mrs. Mayberry's daughter, Geneva Mayberry, and Fred S. Waterman.

The bride is a well-known and highly respected young lady of Pigeon Hill, and the groom is the son of S. B. Waterman of Oxford. They will live on the home farm in Oxford.

Holds Record for Twins.

Ellis Whitman of Buckfield thinks he has a family record which will be hard to beat. He himself is one of twins, the son of a twin, the grandson of a twin, the husband of a twin, and the father of twins.

No Hugging Matches

In the New Dances.

Dreamy waltzes, with the woman held in dignified positions, the man's right hand resting lightly at the waist line, while the tips of his left fingers just touched the palm of his partner's right hand, were selected by the United Professional Teachers of Dancing in America to replace the angular, hugging postures now assumed in ballrooms.

Determined to do away with angle like attitudes and substitute curves in which it will be impossible to take a hugging position without openly squeezing one's partner, these masters of the terpsichorean art have decided to force the public to adopt the six new dances, all combinations of the graceful minuet and the slow, dignified waltz step, or to be out of style in their way of dancing.

One of the dreamiest and slowest of the new waltzes is called Dreamland and is danced to the music of this ballad. Ideal Schottische, a waltz combination with a schottische side-step. The Oak-leaf, a combination of waltz and the old style minuet. The Military Glide Waltz will doubtless be a favorite with young people.

OXFORD.

Boys' Summer School.

Prof. A. F. Caldwell accompanied by over thirty boys who will be students at Camp Oxford this summer, arrived last week Friday afternoon and were immediately driven over. It is the custom for the boys to devote two hours each day to the preparation of lessons and the remainder of the time is given them for recreation.

The Oxfords are dressed in suits of blue with a large red "O".

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Edwards, of Portland, have been spending their honeymoon at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Edwards, of this place. Mr. Edwards is employed as clerk by the wholesale drug firm, J. E. Gould of Portland, and he with his bride are to make their home there.

Mrs. Ann Webb, who has been taking care of Annie Smith, has returned to Bridgton and Miss Smith of Harrison, takes her place.

E. V. Spooner is in town. He is building a new boat house and getting ready to open his summer school.

Prof. Elmer Newell and Rev. F. E. W. have been on a bicycle trip through the White Mountains. Rev. Mr. Barber supplied for Mr. Winn.

J. W. Witham has a bad looking hand and arm from blood poison.

RUMFORD POINT.

Lena Abbott has returned from a trip to New Hampshire.

Mrs. S. P. Howe is able to ride out.

M. A. Elliott and wife returned from the Lakes, Friday, with 40 pounds of salmon and trout.

L. Wentworth and C. Watson of Dixfield were in town, Thursday, selling wagons.

Mrs. Haines and wife of Auburn, and C. Young of Lewiston were in town, Friday.

Will Richardson and Roscoe Knight went up to Ketchum, fishing, Thursday.

Had a Falling Out.

A good story is told of the Hon. John P. Swasey of Canton, at the expense of Hon. J. P. Bass of Bangor. It was years ago when Bass was in the House of Representatives at Augusta and Swasey in the Senate. The late Gen. T. W. Hyde was at that time president of the Senate.

Bass had been making a long and rather ponderous speech on an uninteresting subject. His colleagues yawned, stretched their legs and "wooded" impatiently.

After evidently wearying the members for a considerable length of time the speaker finally subsided. Some way then arose and moved that in view of the warm afternoon the speaker provide his hearers with a plentiful supply of Bass' ale. Herupon Mr. Swasey, who had been an interested observer of the proceedings although he had no right to speak on the floor of the House, jumped up and moved that the former motion be changed to the interrogative, "What Ale's Bass?"

At this Mr. Bass got very indignant and a motion was carried asking the president of the Senate to reprimand Mr. Swasey.

Mr. Bass carried the message to the Senate chamber himself.

In the meantime Mr. Swasey, suspecting something of this kind would take place, had hurried into the Senate chamber. Calling out Gen. Hyde, he asked the general to allow him the chair for a short time, explaining what was going to happen. The general saw the point and absented himself leaving Swasey in the chair.

Accordingly when Mr. Bass marched into the Senate, finding the message of rebuke he was greeted by the to-be rebuked one.

Mr. Swasey after reading the message said, "Gentlemen, this message is borne by the Hon. J. P. Bass!"

In the laugh that followed the sting of the rebuke was forgotten and Mr. Bass made a hurried exit.

Among the speakers at the Bates commencement were two from our county: "The Storm and Stress Period in German Literature," Leo Woodbury Farrar, South Paris (general scholarship); "Silence," Mabel Vivian Shaw, Bethel, (philosophy).

Not many in this vicinity express their willingness to have their cows tested at present but expect they may be obliged to later on.

NORTH WATERFORD.
The proposal for the extension of the narrow gauge railroad from Harrison through South and East Waterford to this village is meeting with universal favor. Several prominent men have expressed themselves willing to give $1000 each, and a town meeting will be called in the near future for the consideration of this proposition.
This means a telling blow to the Norway and Western R. R. now being talked of, and as much trade, especially the grain trade, goes from this and adjacent towns to Norway, it behooves that town to look to its interests, for "as sure as the sun rises and sets," said a citizen today, "we shall have a rail road, if not from Norway, then from Harrison."
This is a subject worth noticing. Waterford is a busy, thriving town and does not need to be left behind in the march of the world's great events.
A rail road from Harrison takes the travel through the beautiful villages of South Waterford and Waterford, where more than 100 city visitors come each year, through a thriving farming section, and into the heart of a great lumber region. We trust that every citizen who has the interest of the community at heart, will do his part in this proposed work.
Mrs. Ella Charles is improving slowly.
John Kilgore and wife of Portland are visiting his brother, W. H. Kilgore.
Uriah McNeil of Tamworth, N. H., is visiting his mother, Mrs. James Brown. Mr. Goldsmith and wife recently of their summer home at North Lovell last week.
The family of Everett Onley of Somerville, Mass., are at Moses Mosher's for a few weeks.
John F. Rice and W. H. Kilgore went to the Democratic County convention as delegates, Tuesday.
The young sons of Henry Warren of Albany, N. Y., have arrived and the family will follow soon.
Mrs. G. P. Fuller and daughter have gone to their former home in Connecticut, for a six weeks visit.
There was a wedding at Parris Page's, Sunday evening, July 1st, when Sidney Hatch and Pearl Lebnoko were married by Rev. G. P. Fuller.
No sooner had German measles sneaked away than whooping cough came whooping into town, fleetly selecting victims principally among the children. The funeral of Able Ray formerly of this town, was held at the home of her sister, Mrs. Perez Bryant, Tuesday morning. Miss Ray has been at the In-cane Asylum 12 years, where she died last Sunday aged about 48 of pneumonia.
Last Saturday while dressing a fowl for the table, Mrs. Ernest Nason found a lizard 3 inches long firmly embedded in the flesh near his breast bone. How it came there is a subject of much conjecture. It has been put in alcohol and may be seen at W. S. Perkins' store. It is a most remarkable circumstance and it is a doubt if anything like it is on record.

McNulty

By SAMUEL EMERY

Copyright, 1905, by S. S. McClure Co.

At a comparatively recent period in the history of the world McNulty, a somewhat strong-minded mule, owned, possessed and occupied the state of Missouri. To those who did not know McNulty this may seem rather an extreme view, but further perusal will serve only to strengthen it. Control, restraint and all those things which make for order and regularity were to him as nothing, and he ruled his domain with despotic sway.

Personally McNulty was an acquired taste. He had a vile temper, wicked little eyes and an unregenerate habit of punctuating his remarks with his heels. It can readily be seen, therefore, that social intercourse with him was what the insurance companies call "extra hazardous." His one accomplishment was his voice. Sometimes when despondent he would express his melancholy in a dolorous singsong that quavered out over the country in—
No one to love, none to caress,
Wandering alone through this world's wilderness.

Some appreciative person, noting McNulty's long upper lip, his strong prejudices and his undying hatred of anything that savored of law and order, saw a striking resemblance to one of the nations of the earth and dubbed him McNulty in a flash.

On a certain afternoon McNulty, strolling idly about his domain, observed that Hendricks, whom, for considerations entirely sentimental, he occasionally condescended to serve, was unusually worried and downcast. This melancholy tendency, he had observed with pain, had increased of late, and McNulty himself perfectly care free, could not in the least understand it. He ambled up to where Hendricks was sitting silently on the fence and into his downcast face murmured at short range his fearsome wail:

No one to love, none to caress,
Wandering alone through this world's wilderness.

"Quit," said Hendricks in alarm. So McNulty stroled off, taking his rebuff with philosophical calmness and picking up his heels with a blade of grass.

Presently the sound of wheels made him prick up his ears, and he saw a stout, red faced man drive up and alight. With the quick intuition of the people with whom he was strategically allied, McNulty detected a landlord and knew him for an enemy instantly. With characteristic insolence, therefore, he stroled over and in a most offensive manner planted himself directly in the stout man's way. He, with the sublime courage of ignorance and utter disregard of consequences which is the American's hallmark, flicked McNulty smartly with his cane.

In a flash McNulty wheeled, like a battery going into action, and with reproachable technique planted his foot just where a heavy gold watch chain after laboriously circumnavigating the fat man's protuberance was triumphantly clutching a vest button. To McNulty's intense chagrin he saw that he had miscalculated his range, for the stricken one, instead of dying forthwith, clasped himself frantically and fell down on a barrel. At this point Hendricks came up, and more in sorrow than in anger drove him forth into the wide world, while he himself strove to hide a wicked grin.

It was dark before the stout man, casting fearful glances about him, came out and drove away. Hendricks, looking after him from the doorway, saw black against the rising full moon a weird, writhing object like a new sign of the zodiac.
"Oh, Mac, Mac," he said ruefully. "Why didn't you kick his confounded head off?" From over the moonlit fields came a faint, dolorous wail:

No one to love, none to caress,
Wandering alone through this world's wilderness.

McNulty's entrance upon the strenuous life began almost with that hour. Thereafter he was caught up and whirled into the very vortex of those events which make history, so that he came to exercise a mighty sway upon the affairs of mankind and write his name in imperishable lines upon the surface of the globe. That act of the great world drama in which he was cast began to move with a swifter tempo from the moment of his entrance upon the stage.

With the calm of a philosopher McNulty allowed Hendricks to take leave of him with a warmth of affection, which neither of them could quite understand. Nor did it worry him overmuch thereafter to find himself under the nominal control of various persons. His hour had not yet come.

Finally an army contractor, a humble instrument of fate, sent him with others of his race to South Africa, there to serve the queen.

It is a well known fact that the British army does not seek to encourage originality among its members, and McNulty soon began to suffer the griefs of the misunderstood. Even his voice, that priceless treasure, as it welled up to the brilliant African stars, threw whole regiments into disorder and caused the tender hearted to weep.

It was on a certain morning just before dawn that, having been troubled with bad dreams, he sang his mournful ditty to the awakening camp:

No one to love, none to caress,
Wandering alone through this world's wilderness.

The orderly who was busied about him scrambled away, declaring that it was enough to make you think all hares had popped loose. For this stirring remark McNulty let drive a little subcaliber kick at him. The orderly, out of all patience, fixed a bayonet upon a Lee-Metford and, holding it at arms length, prodded that portion of McNulty's anatomy which had given birth to the kick. A hind foot struck out viciously, but he was ready for it and caught it squarely upon the point of the bayonet.

Wild with pain, McNulty went stark mad, and, screaming, roaring and howling, he went amuck up and down the lines where the others of his family were stationed, kicking, biting and cursing them. Back and forth before them he dashed, urging them to mutiny, exhorting them to rise against their persecutors and between times biting and kicking them all over again.

Finally they rose and, breaking through the startled camp they swept like a whirlwind, overturning tents, stamping out fires, scattering soldiers. Headless of everything and everybody, they passed the firing line and dashed madly across the open field. Urging them on with kicks and noise came McNulty, the pain in his foot growing with every step. Before them rose a rugged kopie, and toward this he directed them, his disordered brain seeing in it some resemblance to the knolls of his beloved Missouri.

Behind that grim kopie stout burghers, gray bearded men and stolid youths looked on in amazement and horror. This was not war, it was a mode. It was contrary to all regulations for cavalry to charge intrenched infantry, and up a rag, too, where no horse could find footing! It was unfair, unjust; it was last year's rules and contrary to all the usages of correct war. They held up appealing hands to high heaven and forthwith fled.

Meanwhile all this noise and confusion had come to the notice of a little white haired man, with piercing eyes, who had but lately come upon the scene. From him orders flowed in a white hot stream, and galloping aids radiated to all points of the compass. Things began to happen.

Presently a thrill shot half round the world. A little old lady, with drooping eyelids, who lived in most luxurious surroundings, received a message over which she shed a few happy tears just like any other old lady. A certain very high official with an orchid boutonniere jammed his monocle into his eye with fresh energy and fell to planning new things for his colonies. The very "high" deep hole by fate—and McNulty.

Then a message quivered along the ooze and slime of the Atlantic. Some fliers reading bulletins in front of a New York newspaper office saw a man crawl out on a balcony and write swiftly and largely on a blackboard. More people stopped to look and then the crowd on Washington street blocked the cars. Chicago heard something, and a telegraph editor tore his hair. Chicago told the news to St. Louis, and St. Louis flung it across the prairies to Denver. Denver shouted it over the Rocky mountains to the Golden Gate, and San Francisco spread the tidings up and down the length and breadth of the Pacific slope. Nations called to nations, and the continents sent it ringing to the echoing isles of the sea.

Hendricks sat in a New York broker's office looking gloomily at a big blackboard. About him sat twenty or more impassive men talking and smoking. Above the low hum of conversation rose the droning, expressionless voice of the man at the ticker.

"Atch" five-eighths, 500 a half; Rock Island a half, St. Paul seven-eighths, Brooklyn five-eighths, a half, 400 at three-eighths; A. and A. 40, 500 seven-eighths, 500 a half.
In spite of himself Hendricks groaned. The devil that lived in the ticker went off into a paroxysm of chuckling, until the reiterated wordless "cluck-cluck-cluck-cluck" began to get on his nerves.

"Mr. Hendricks," said the bland manager behind him, "I'm afraid we shall have to call on you for more margin."
"I'm busted," said Hendricks dolorfully. "It's no use trying. Where do you sell me out?"
The manager sucked his teeth in silence, then said:

"Thirty-eight and a half."
Hendricks faced round quickly. "Why, man," he cried, "I'm margined deeper than that!"
"Sorry, Mr. Hendricks," said the other said smoothly, "but we have to protect ourselves in a market like this. What in the world, if I may ask, made you sink all you had in the African and American Steamship company?"
"Oh, I thought it was a good thing," Hendricks said impatiently. "And so it would have been but for this cursed Boer war. I'd like to be one of ten men to hang that old Kruger!"

The manager permitted himself to smile gently. "You wouldn't have to go far for the other nine," he said. "The 'street' is putting up prayers in seven synagogues for 'Bobs' success." Then he went back, murmuring something about "blame fools that mortgaged their very shirts to buy when any child can see it's a bear market."

The monotonous voice at the ticker went on:
"Mop" three-eighths, Sugar a half, Brooklyn three-eighths, a quarter, three-eighths, A. and A. three-eighths; a hundred more at a quarter."
In the inner office a stout man with an overworked gold watch chain was becoming more offensively triumphant with every quotation that came over the tape.

"A. and A. a quarter and no bottom!" he sang out joyously. "Sell another hundred at the market."
Outside, Hendricks, in utter despair, was clutching the rungs of his chair and with head bowed was trying to pray to such gods as he elected to serve. The noise in the room came dimly to his ears.

"Brooklyn three-quarters, Metropolitan a half, A. and A. an eighth, 200 at 39."
With the grim humor that comes only when hope is gone, Hendricks smiled grimly and murmured, "We who are about to die salute you."

"Wabash three-quarters, A. and A. seven-eighths," went on the relentless voice. "B. and O. a half, A. and A. five-eighths."
"That's 40%!" exclaimed a man at the ticker. There was a sharp intake of breath, and then somebody said "Go!" in an awed tone.

The droning began again: "Atch" three-quarters, A. and A. 41, an eighth, 500 a quarter, a thousand at five-eighths." In spite of himself he could not keep the excitement out of his voice. Every man in the room was on his feet. "Mop" a half, A. and A. 42; 500, 43; 500, 44."
Hendricks was on his feet, with the rest, striving with shaking hands to relight his reeking cigar. A young man near him punched his friend in ecstasy. "The shorts are on the run, Billy!" he cried joyfully.

Down the narrow street outside came a resonant, singsong voice: "Ultrai Ultrai!"
"Extras!" cried somebody. "Open the window."
As the sash snapped up the voice swelled in above the manifold noises of the city. "Ultrai! Ultrai! British win a big victory! Ultrai!" Up the street a roller organ was gladly caroling, singing its gospel that life was all joy and merriment and dancing. To the end of his life Hendricks never forgot that song, with its seductive shake and trill that set one's feet twitching and the thinking cascade of silver notes that rippled down the scale at every interval.

The man at the ticker had resumed his wonted expressionless voice. "A. and A. 45; 500 a half; 1,000, 46; a thousand more at 45."
There was an awed hush. No one spoke. The organ outside had come nearer, and Hendricks, unconsciously beating time with his foot, hummed the chorus:

Don't make no blunder;
You couldn't lose him.
A perfect wonder
They had to choose him.
A great musician
Of high position
Was Whistling Rufus, the one man band.
But on the other side of the globe a disconsolate world power with a sore with was making the hated air quiver with the chorus:

No one to love, none to caress,
Wandering alone through this world's wilderness.

Animal Husbands.
In military stables horses are known to have pretended to be lame in order to avoid going to a military exercise. A chimpanzee had been fed on cake regined coughing in order to procure dainties. The cuckoo, as is well known, lays its eggs in another bird's nest, and to make the deception surer it takes away one of the other bird's eggs. Ants are conscious of their deceit, as shown by the fact that they try to act secretly and noiselessly. They show a sense of guilt if detected. They take precautions in advance to avoid discovery. In some cases they manifest regret and repentance. Thus bees which steal hesitate often before and after their exploits, as if they feared punishment. A naturalist describes how his monkey committed theft. While he pretended to sleep the animal regarded him with hesitation, and stopped every time his master moved or seemed on the point of awakening.

London Answers.
What is marriage?
Marriage is an institution for the blind.
When a man thinks seriously of marriage what happens?
He remains single.
Should a man marry a girl for her money?
No. But he should not let her become an old maid just because she's rich.
When a girl refers to a "sad courtship" what does she mean?
She means that the man got away. Is an engagement as good as marriage?
It's better.
Why does a bride wear a veil?
So that she may conceal her satisfaction.

He means he can make her do anything she wants to.—Detroit News.

Whittier.
A bashful suburban couple sought a city minister, says the Boston Herald, and asked his aid in getting married. "Very well," said the clergyman. "Will you be married with a ringman?" "Why, yes," said the groom hesitatingly. "Yes—if you have one handy I guess we will."

When the Hair Falls

Then it's time to act! No time to study, to read, to experiment! You want to save your hair, and save it quickly, too! So make up your mind this very minute that if your hair ever comes out you will use Ayer's Hair Vigor. It makes the scalp healthy. The hair stays in. It cannot do anything else. It's nature's way. A Heart to Heart Talk.

The knell of the short sleeve has already been sounded, and the mid-summer waists are being made with close-fitting coverings reaching to the elbow or even above it, and having a modern fullness above that. Fall will bring a radical change, if one is to judge by the feminine wearing apparel now being planned.

There is no denying the comfort of the elbow sleeve in hot weather, but it is obvious, by the display of gaudiness vouchsafed us thus far, that about one woman in twenty-five can afford to bare her arms to the public. Lace and tulle cover a multitude of shortcomings, and a scrawny neck takes on an air of plumpness by a covering of this sort, and skinty arms can be successfully disguised in much the same fashion.

There will be a number of useless garments to be laid away when long sleeves are restored to favor. Women who cannot afford to waste were not content with one or two new models, but slashed away, regardless of the future, and made their entire wardrobe on the same model. That is not good dressing, my friends, for there will be pinching to pay for it, and the extravagance of discarded clothing before it has paid for itself in service. It is wiser to keep up with the becoming fashions by occasional additions to the wardrobe and a bit of alteration in garments that are getting out of date.

It requires a handsome income to keep quite in fashion for the novelties pour into the shops in a steady stream. But it is not necessary to keep pace with the changes in order to look well. One up-to-date touch will make a costume smart enough to pass muster even in fashionable circles. The idea of dress that everybody in society has an elastic income is not correct. There is a deal of planning and pinching to keep up with the procession, and when smartness is not possible a great deal of eccentricity. Men and women are not quite equal to an honest confession of poverty.

three large rock fountains with fancy sprays that throw the water ten feet or more in air. This seems very cool and refreshing and the sound of falling waters restful, to say nothing of the beauty, especially when lighted in the evening. The grounds and buildings are well lighted with electric lights. Flowers, shrubs and ferns have been planted. There is a croquet ground and swings. Table and seats are provided for picnickers. Flags float in the breeze. This beneath the shade of the large tall pines makes an ideal summer play ground.

This is not all quite completed as yet, but work is being pushed forward and it will only be a few days before it will be done.

Fireworks.

The display of fireworks began at 8 o'clock near the residence of C. W. Horne on Elm street. A large crowd gathered near and witnessed a fine display. People were all along lower Main street, where the fireworks could be plainly seen, and the Academy yard was filled with people. The fireworks were in the form of shooting stars, fountains, the weeping willow and various others. The last was the national flag and near the intersection of the Academy and Main streets.

There were several displays at private residences. Among them we noticed that of F. P. Stone, A. J. Nevers, E. E. Andrews.

Billings-Stuart.

Thursday evening, June 28, at the East Hebron Free Baptist parsonage occurred the wedding of Charles Williams Billings and Emma Boyd Stuart. Rev. W. T. Boyd performed the ceremony and the arch and ferns and roses, using the ring service. Mrs. Mamie Boyd was matron of honor. Roland Stuart gave the bride away at the altar. Dorothy Stuart presided at the organ. The ushers were R. L. Whitney, W. H. Johnson and H. Lovell Shaw. Little Alice Boyd was "ring bearer."
The bride's dress was white Sicilian with silk embroidered trimming cut on princess. She carried a bouquet of roses.
About seventy guests were present, many from out of town. Refreshments of ice cream, cake and lemonade were served.

Mr. Billings has the position of general agent for the Staples Piano company, with stores at Portland, Rumford Falls and Ellsworth.
Mrs. Billings has been employed as organist by the leading churches of Bath. She is an accomplished player and has carried C. D. D. shipments of liquor to prohibition points. Please advise your shippers accordingly.
This action by the express company will greatly aid the deputy sheriffs in their seizure of contraband liquors. Up to the present time it has been the habit of the shippers to send the liquor C. O. D. to the consignees, and if it was seized here by the sheriffs, the deputies were forced to send it back to the shippers on the claim that it was seized in transit.

In a great number of instances, the officers would have been glad to have been able to get hold of the shipments as they were positive that the liquors were intended for illegal sale and not for personal use.
With the packages coming "paid" the officers will be able to seize the stuff and the claim will have to be made by the consignee.

A Course Dinner.

The Wayan Indian Chief Served One.

Years ago Colonel Crocker, a doughty Indian fighter, peace-maker as well among the soldiers and copper colored inhabitants of the hills of Nebraska, became the object of an old chief's sincere admiration. The chief has long since passed to the happy hunting ground. Colonel Crocker was a gentleman to the manner born, and punctilious to the furthest degree, whether on the trail of a band of redskin marauders, in the camp on the plains, at the army post or at a social gathering in Washington.

On one occasion while the Colonel was in Washington, the old chief who so admired him was among the Indian guests invited to the city of the White Father. The old chief soon found his old friend, and former foe, and at once attached himself to the officer. The Colonel was not averse to the attention; indeed, he enjoyed hobnobbing with his ancient enemy of the plains and valleys of Nebraska, and he thought himself how he might best entertain the old chief. Why not give a dinner to the old chief, do things a la mode, and give him food for thought to take back to his wigwam under the foothills?

The "spread" was most fastidious, the viands were all that could be desired, the dinner was served in seven courses, and was just as the Colonel intended it should be.

The old chief ate in silence, and seemed to pay attention to nothing so much as the stiff-backed waiter who came and went like an automaton during the meal.

After it was over the chief grunted as he rubbed his stomach. "Heap good eat! Big man make much fuss, free, four, seven time."

After the Colonel returned to his post he was approached by the old chief, who invited him to his wigwam for "big eat." Colonel Crocker often told about the episode.

Times had not treated the old chief well, the hunting season had failed to stock his larder with the good things of the chase. There was not an ounce of deer or bear or buffalo meat in the wigwag. The place was poorly lighted, smoke curled from the small fire in the back and slowly floated from the opening at the top. The Colonel found the old chief already seated at the plain board table. He pointed to the block opposite, and the Colonel seated himself.

The old man's squaw came in and placed before each of them a dish of mush and molasses. After eating, the chief uttered, in a loud voice: "Here 'em, squaw, take 'em away, squaw."

The stoiclike creature took the dishes away.
"Here 'em, squaw, bring 'em back, squaw!"
Again the squaw entered with the dishes, mush and molasses as before. Again they cleared the dishes, and again the old chief ordered:
"Here 'em, squaw, take 'em away, squaw."

This strange proceeding took place precisely seven times. Not another word was passed between the chief and the Colonel. The tawdry old squaw waitress was as one graven from stone; by the silence of it all was only broken by the command, "Here 'em, squaw, take 'em away, squaw; here 'em, squaw, bring 'em back, squaw."

As a guarantee that the story of Father John's Medicine is absolutely true, the sum of $25,000 will be given to any charitable institution if it can be shown otherwise.

Half a Century ago, when the late Father John O'Brien of Lowell, Mass., recommended to his parishioners and friends the prescription that had restored him to health and strength, the people named it Father John's Medicine.
Its power to make strength and build up the body explains why it cures Colds and all Throat and Lung Troubles.
Sold in 50c and $1.00 bottles. The $1.00 size contains three times the quantity of the 50c size.

Value of Maine's Inland Ponds.
In speaking of the fishing outlook and other matters, Commissioner L. T. Carlton says:
"The inland fish industry, so to speak, is worth vastly more to Maine than the game and both are of sufficient importance to amply justify the expenditures made by the State in this direction, returning to our people in revenue millions of dollars annually."
"Maine will continue to be the great vacation State of the nation. The conditions and surroundings in different parts of the State are so varied that even the most fastidious cannot fail of being suited. We have every gradation of rustic beauty—beautiful rivers, towering mountains and hilly districts, broad valleys and level tablelands populous and thriving cities, rural villages and the sombre, unbroken wilderness."
"For the great majority of city toilers who seek relief from the over-work, over-wrought brain, physical and mental fatigue, there is nothing so beneficial as the peaceful quiet and pure ozone of the woods and mountains. In these days of rapid transit those having even moderate means and limited time have learned that they can leave the dust and toil of distant cities behind them some morning or evening and in twelve, twenty-four, or thirty-six hours breathe the sweet breath of the piney woods of Maine above them, or look out upon old ocean from her rockbound coast, and looking up, through forest trees or ocean mist, devoutly thank God that they are there."

THE FARM TOOL HOUSE.
Saving time and cutting down expenses means larger profits in farm management. The progressive farmer is the one who is looking after his tools and things. We have found a time and money saver in having a well-regulated tool room. A place for tools, extras for repairs and available material to repair the multitude of breaks that are coming up constantly on the farm where a "stitch in time saves nine." When a break occurs on a piece of machinery, much time is lost in a trip to town to get it fixed when with the aid of a few tools and a little judgement the repair could easily be made.
Too many people think that they cannot use tools and so never try to fix things themselves. This is a mistake. It is true that genius for making things is born in some people, but it is also acquired in others through the continued use of tools or by association with workmen who know how to handle them. By using tools for repairing, the habit of studying out things about machinery will grow on one. How often have we noted farmers trying to piece a piece of machinery before they could comprehend the first principles by which it worked. There are many things that hammer, saw and plane can do on the farm that will not only afford profit but contribute to the tidiness and the premises.
We would suggest some of the following tools for the tool house: Hammer, hatchet, hand axe, wood rasp, rip, cross-cut, and keyhole saw, brace and set of bits, steel square, pair of dividers, tee square, plane, gauge, level, chisel, drawing knife, saw, leather punch, griststone, oil stone and such other tools as may be thought to be of use.
It would be well to set up a work bench in the tool house with a vice attached, possibly an anvil and a portable forge might be added. Have a place for every tool and see that it is returned to its niche after using. Make the tool house serve the purpose for which it was intended and not as a place for storing things as is too often the case. The tool house may become one of the important helps of the farm. It is a profitable investment, teaches system and saves time and money. Have you got one?

STONEHAM.
Death of George Speers.
George Speers passed away last Saturday evening, June 23, at 8 o'clock. He has been ill for a long time and for the past year or more he has been confined to the house. He has been a great care to his wife and son, Alfred, who survive him.
The funeral was held last Monday p. m., at his late residence. Deceased was a veteran of the Rebellion, having served as a private in Co. G, 20th Regt. Inf., 13 months, and was honorably discharged therefrom. In the service his health was seriously impaired, during the past four years he has been unable to care for himself on account of his sad mental condition, added to his physical infirmities, and has been a subject of great grief and care to his family and friends.
Marion McAllister has been to Norway. The summer boarders are beginning to come.
Henry Elliott has been through here selling fish.
Will Culbert's father and mother have been here visiting.
Mrs. Lucy McAllister has an old hymn book, printed in 1811.
Mrs. M. E. Grover has been visiting friends at West Lovell.
Kenneth Gurney has had a camp full of company from Norway.
Moses Grover has a new graphophone, which is a very nice one.
Mrs. Farrington and her mother from Chicago, are in their cottage by the lake.
Frank McAllister has recently bought a horse of Mr. Lovell of Bethel.
Mrs. Martin Goodwin has been to Lynnhill to see her son, Elmer, who is in very poor health.
Mr. and Mrs. Lorin McKee have been to West Stoneham for a few days, to keep house for Mr. and Mrs. H. B. McKee.
MacPhie and Smith, evangelists, have been holding gospel meetings at the church, assisted by the pastor, Rev. G. F. Fuller, who is working hard for the advancement of Christ's kingdom. He has been very successful, his interest is with his people, he kindly assists in all good work.

A Red Letter Day.
Last Friday was a red letter day for the Brackett school, Harrison. This school has been under the direction of Josephine Shedd for the past ten weeks and the pupils all show a decided improvement in their studies. One and all join in the wish that she may come back next term.
On Friday the school was invited to the home of Miss Shedd from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. The morning was rainy but cleared off and all gathered at the appointed hour. A game of baseball was played by the boys, then croquet and other business until dinner time. Mr. Shedd served lemonade.
At one o'clock dinner was announced and sixteen took their places at the table. The dining-room was prettily decorated with white and blue paper, streamers coming from all parts of the room terminated in a bell shape over the table. A large bouquet of flowers was placed on the table. The menu served was as follows:
Mashed potatoes, salmon salad, raised bread, butter.
Ice cream, cake.
Banana cream, peanuns.
Among the many kinds of cake two are deserving of special mention. One large cake covered with white icing with the name of each guest written on it with pink. The other was elaborately decorated by Mr. Peterson. The outline of the Brackett school house was drawn on it and the name.
After dinner music was enjoyed, Miss Shedd playing and Mr. Peterson singing solo songs. Mrs. Shedd kindly gave her aid in entertaining and gave a humorous reading which was highly appreciated.
Mr. Peterson, who is a sailor, showed pictures of the places he visited during his last voyage. Among the interesting things were a bottle of sand he gathered from the Sahara Desert and a small bottle of volcanic sand which he gathered from the inside of an extinct volcano himself. His talk on his voyage was highly entertaining.
More music was enjoyed, then games were played out doors until it was time to take leave, then Miss Shedd, Mr. and Mrs. Shedd and Mr. Peterson were warmly thanked by all for the kind and pleasant way they had entertained them. With regret they started on their way home, wishing they might spend such another pleasant day sometime.
Those present were: Alton Noyes, Almon Rowe, George Davis, Henry Wetherell, Everett Brackett, Arthur Stokes, Ida Stokes, Mrs. Dresser, Earl Dresser, Windsor Chute, Alvins Dresser, Marion Hilton and Raymond Haskell. Guests present outside the school were: D. Alice Wetherell, Lula Blanche Haskell and Eva Dresser.

A Giant Among Trees.
On "Intervale" farm, owned by H. N. Upton and situated in Bethel, stands a high elm tree so near the banks of the Androscoggin that its roots draw moisture directly from the river.
Its circumference one foot above the ground is 26 feet and five feet from the ground 20 1/2 feet. Six feet above the ground it divides into two nearly equal trunks about 25 feet high. These trunks then divide and sub-divide into branches forming a tree of symmetry and beauty 100 feet high.
We have no means of determining its exact age. It has stood there in silent dignity for at least 100 years—probably nearer 200.
GRAFTON.
C. E. Brown of Norway is boarding at O. W. Brooks'.
M. D. Sturtevant of Wentworth Location has been in town.
Mrs. Frank Wood of Randolph, N. H., has been visiting her mother, Mrs. A. W. Farrar.
Mrs. Sewell Pratt of Waterville, a former resident of this place, has suffered a paralytic shock.
We are glad to report that Mrs. O. W. Brooks, who has been ill for several weeks, is improving.
The Rose Dance.
One of the prettiest dances ever given in Dixfield was held here, given by the young ladies of the Welcome Rebekah lodge, Tuesday night, June 26th, in Tuscan Opera House. There were hundreds of roses used in the decorations. The dance orders were unusually pretty, color green, in the shape of a large rose leaf, decorated with a large pink rose and tied with pink ribbon. The gentlemen were presented with a rose at the door, and roses were worn by the ladies.

A Smart Old Man.
"Uncle Vin" Abbott, the oldest man in Dixfield, started at about half past nine miles from Rumford Falls, to walk down to see the circus. A neighbor overtook him and gave him a lift and when he reached the Falls he met so many old friends that the circus was forgotten in the pleasure of recalling old times. Uncle Vin is almost 91 years old, but he bought a fishing outfit and says he intends now to go fishing once in a while.

Girls, Read This.
The Girl that the Best Kind of Men Will Appreciate.
When you hear a girl boasting of the attention she receives it is safe to assume that the amount is small.
The wise girl keeps quiet on the subject.
She is content to let the world judge for itself as to her popularity.
She does not inform all her girl friends of the fact every time a young man calls on her.
She does not boast of every box of chocolates, or every invitation to the theater she receives.
The result is that she has a great deal of very pleasant general attention. A man feels that he can call on her without the entire circle of his friends being immediately made aware of the fact.
He knows that she is willing to accept a warm friendship from him without expecting him to fall in love with her.
The trouble with a great many girls is that they talk too much.
When a man begins to show them a little attention they cannot resist the temptation to boast about it.
The first thing a man knows he is being teased about his attention to go, and so he learns, to his amazement, that he is supposed to be very devoted to her.
In all probability the attentions have been shown in a purely friendly spirit and he thinks it wiser to drop them if it causes gossip.
If the girl had not talked so much she might have kept her friend.
When a number of girls get together the talk naturally turns to lovers and love making.
But let a wise one tell you, girls, that if you are shrewd you will listen instead of relating your experiences.
Don't talk even though the other girls may think you keep quiet because you have nothing to tell.
Keep quiet and then you will have nothing to regret.
Never repeat anything that a man tells you.
If he confides any of his personal or business affairs to you, regard them as sacred.
If he tells you a secret that later becomes publicly known, do not show that you have known it all along.
Be content that he has confided in you without letting the world know of the confidence.
If you have a man friend who writes to you do not show his letters to other girls.
Those letters are written for your eyes alone and it is dishonorable to read them to others.
A man is quick to detect a girl whom he can trust and he honors her with respect and esteem.
Most men labor under the idea that woman is a natural born chatterbox, that she can keep nothing to herself.
It is every girl's duty to be a living contradiction of this theory.
Let the men see that you, at least, know how to govern your propensity to talk.
Talk about your men friends if you want to but don't talk about their attentions to you or tell other girls what the men tell you.
Always remember that the one who keeps quiet is given credit for knowing a good deal, while the chatterbox tells all she knows and no one attaches much importance to her utterances.
There's many a slip 'twixt cup and lip." The girl who boasts of her conquests often places herself in an extremely humiliating position when the other girl carries off her supposed victim.
If she only realizes the fact, the girl who boasts of her conquests harms her self equally with acquaintances of both sexes, men regarding her as a sort of "scalp hunter," and women hating her as a poacher on their preserves. Let us bear our honors meekly and in silence. Conquests, if real, are patent for all to see.
The girl who really attracts men need never advertise herself.

Girls, Read This.
The Girl that the Best Kind of Men Will Appreciate.
When you hear a girl boasting of the attention she receives it is safe to assume that the amount is small.
The wise girl keeps quiet on the subject.
She is content to let the world judge for itself as to her popularity.
She does not inform all her girl friends of the fact every time a young man calls on her.
She does not boast of every box of chocolates, or every invitation to the theater she receives.

50,000 People See Eastern Canada.
G. T. R. Exhibition Car Travels 6,000 Miles.
Attendance of 50,000.
The Grand Trunk Railway exhibition car, with pictorial views of Canada and trophies of the angler's art and hunter's craft, has nearly completed its three months trip through the States, having traveled considerably more than 6,000 miles and drawn an aggregated attendance of 50,000 people in fifty-one American cities.
The crowds have been so great and the desire manifested to know about Canada so eager that the director of ceremonies has been at his wits end to furnish accommodation.
The car is now traveling in New York State, and will move upward over the Lehigh Valley Railroad, stopping at the principal cities between New York and Buffalo. It will furnish its American tour on June 13. It will be brought over the Grand Trunk main line through Canada, stopping at Hamilton and Toronto, to Montreal, where it will be sent eastward to give the people an idea of the kind of advertising the Grand Trunk are doing for Canada, as well as giving them an opportunity of seeing what the "Highlands of Ontario" have to offer in the way of summer resorts.
The car has been all the way through the Southwestern States and the Mississippi Valley. From towns other than those on its line of route there have been received many written requests that they should be included in its itinerary. Whenever it was possible these requests were complied with. This is considered beyond all question the most successful advertising tour of its character that has been undertaken.

SOUTH ALBANY.

Nero Missing.

Frank Beach's big dog, Nero, has disappeared in some unaccountable manner. Nero has been owned by Mr. Beach ever since he was a puppy, and as he was a remarkably intelligent dog, was thought a great deal of by the family. He was an excellent watch dog and when the premises were left in his care everything was as safe as though under lock and key, and perhaps more so as locks can be picked, but no one cared to interfere with Nero. He has been missing more than a week and has been seen by no one, and the cause of his disappearance is still a mystery. The family are feeling very badly over his loss.
